Attitude/ History/ Background/Relationships:

"Whatever whatever" valley girl, lives in Van Nuys, parents own a liquor store, thinks she is SO grown up and "all that!" Her parents are always working, so she basically micromanages her own life and is lost in the trendy little details of it and makes a big deal out of everything. Her parents come home at 11pm each night and she is basically on her phone ALL the time. She is actually super brainiac smart, and has great grades and the secret admiration of her teachers, but she dumbs it up for her posse of 5 good friends, so she can be "popular" and cool. Another secret about her, is that the right side of her body was completely burned in a random candle blaze in her room back in the year 2015. She has a prosthetic, super-advanced skin mask on that side that she has to painstakingly remove every single night. Nobody knows this secret and it is really a lot of work to keep up her Valley Girl image, but it is worth it in her world. She bought the "skin" with her own trust fund money and didn't even tell her parents.

Motivation:

She desires to one day get about 15 surgeries with the world renown, Dr. Havyamonee, in order to have her own new skin.
